Chapter I: Introduction

Section I.A: Purpose and Scope

1.1 Purpose

The purpose of the [COMPANY NAME] Policy and Procedure Manual (the “Manual”) is to codify the operations and operational system of the [COMPANY NAME]. The Manual is a mandated guide for all staff members, outlining how we function as an organization to provide superior care and meet best practice standards within residential treatment services for at-risk youth.

1.2 Scope

The Manual covers everything throughout the systems of operation. This includes administrative processes, clinical interventions, resident management, safety protocols, and state/federal regulations that must be met for compliance. The Manual applies to all employees, volunteers, interns, and contractors who work under the umbrella of [COMPANY NAME]. It is important that everyone reading this takes their time to understand its contents so they can stay in line with what’s expected of them.

Section I.B: Mission Statement and Vision

1.3 Mission Statement

[COMPANY NAME] Mission Statement

1.4 Vision

[COMPANY NAME] Vision

Section I.C: Program Philosophy and Approach

1.5 Philosophy

At [COMPANY NAME], our philosophy is built on our belief that every child has the potential to overcome adversity that they face in life. We run on a trauma-informed care model which acts as a foundation for our treatment philosophy—and is supported by Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT) and utilizing Perception, Association, Evaluation, Decision (P.A.E.D.) techniques—as we believe these two combined form the centerpiece of our therapeutic approach.

1.6 Trauma-Informed Care (TIC)

1.6.1: TIC Framework

The cornerstone of our TIC framework is that trauma has widespread effects and implications. Our approach is holistic, taking into account that trauma influences the whole experience of a person, their contacts with others, behavior patterns, and perceptions.

1.6.2: TIC Practices

Combining TIC procedures, we endeavor to establish a safe space, both physically and emotionally, to cultivate trust and a feeling of security among the residents. This approach influences all elements of our care, from clinical interventions down to day-to-day interactions.

1.7 Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT)

1.7.1: CBT Integration

CBT is integrated into our clinical programming to deal with the complex mental health requirements of our residents. The trained therapists implement CBT to help the residents comprehend the dynamic relationship between their thoughts, emotions, and behaviors, thereby encouraging them to make healthy changes.

1.7.2: CBT Techniques

To address many different kinds of psychological problems ranging from mood disorders to behavior patterns, we utilize therapeutic methods such as cognitive restructuring, behavioral activation, or exposure therapy.

1.8 Perception, Association, Evaluation, Decision (P.A.E.D.)

1.8.1: P.A.E.D. Implementation

The P.A.E.D. process is a unique therapeutic tool that allows residents to trace their behaviors back to their perceptions. Through analyzing the process of perception to decision making, residents get an understanding of their behavioral patterns and also acquire strategies to make healthier decisions.

1.8.2: P.A.E.D. Application

Staff is trained in the P.A.E.D. model to ensure its use is uniform across all programs. This model does not only apply in therapeutic sessions but in everyday interactions and it is a pervasive instrument for self-awareness and self-development among our residents.

1.8.3: P.A.E.D. Outcomes

P.A.E.D is created to allow our residents to be in a position of empowering themselves through a reflective process that sees to it that they make better decisions which in turn improve their lives.

This commitment extends to periodic reassessments to ensure the continuity and appropriateness of the care, treatment, or services provided.

Definitions

Assessment: This term refers to the methodical procedure [COMPANY NAME] implements to gather essential, clinically pertinent details about individuals seeking our behavioral health support, interventions, or other services. The data collected plays a critical role in ensuring an individual's requirements are perfectly aligned with the most fitting service environment, program, or therapeutic intervention.

Specifically, within the context of opioid treatment programs, this evaluation process delves into determining the specific characteristics and scope of an individual's substance use challenges, alongside any concurrent medical, psychological, or social issues, laying the groundwork for crafting a comprehensive treatment strategy.

Reassessment: This is the continuous process of gathering data, initiated at the first assessment, and involves comparing the latest information with previously collected data to monitor progress and adjust care plans, as necessary.

Screening: This procedure is designed to identify individuals who exhibit particular risk indicators related to physical or behavioral health concerns that necessitate a more thorough evaluation.

3.11.1 Purpose of Screening

Our initial screening process is designed with a dual focus. This procedure is rooted in a profound respect for the individuality and diverse backgrounds of the young people we encounter. By establishing a systematic protocol for evaluation, assessment, and periodic reassessment, we commit to not only identifying the immediate fit but also to ensuring the continuous development and adjustment of a personalized care, treatment, or service plan. This dynamic plan is meticulously crafted to reflect and adapt to the changing needs, goals, and preferences of each individual under our care, underlining our dedication to providing tailored and responsive support.

3.11.2 Screening Protocol

The assessment begins with an initial screening of youth applications, which includes a thorough examination of their character, education and psychological background. This is particularly critical for entrants to specialized programs such as those for opioid treatment, necessitating completion within a 30-day window post-admission, or sooner based on the urgency of the individual's situation.

Detailed Assessment Components

3.11.2.2.2 Broad-Spectrum Evaluation: The assessment includes an array of evaluations to form a comprehensive understanding of each individual, involving:

(explain procedure in detail)

Subsequent and Targeted Evaluations

3.11.2.2.3 Tailored Follow-up Assessments: Following the initial findings, our team undertakes supplementary evaluations to delve deeper into specific areas such as mental status, psychological state, psychiatric conditions, and intellectual and cognitive functions.

In-Depth Data Gathering

3.11.2.2.4 Holistic Data Collection: Our assessments extend to collecting critical data that influence care, treatment, and service provision, covering family circumstances (e.g., incarcerations, divorce, drug use, bereavement, etc.) living environments, hobbies, cultural and spiritual beliefs, childhood histories including traumas, and language preferences, self-care ability, among others.

3.11.2.3 Evidence-Based Assessment Utilization

3.11.2.3.1 Application of Specialized Tools: Leveraging evidence-based tools like the ASAM Criteria, Level of Care Utilization System for Psychiatric and Addiction Services (LOCUS), and Child and Adolescent Needs and Strengths (CANS) we ensure the placement and care level determination aligns with each individual's needs, supported by policy and regulatory frameworks.

3.11.2.4 Individualized Assessment Outcomes

3.11.2.4.1 Comprehensive Individual Profiles: The culmination of these assessments provides a full spectrum view of each individual's mental health, medical conditions, and substance use history, forming the basis for personalized care planning. Candidates are expected to communicate their goals, preferences, strengths, and needs, and it is the responsibility of the staff to document these in the candidates' own words.

3.11.2.5 Collaborative Engagement and Documentation

3.11.2.5.1 Inclusive Assessment Process: Emphasizing a participatory approach, we involve the individual—and where suitable, their family or guardians—in the assessment, ensuring plans reflect their voiced needs, strengths, preferences, and aspirations. This process is critical as it helps determine the candidate's individual needs including: nutritional, communication, spiritual, cultural, psychosocial, behavioral, emotional, pain management, and clinical needs.

3.11.2.5.2 Rigorous Documentation: Every aspect of the assessments, including family involvement and decision-making processes, is meticulously documented, ensuring transparency and a tailored treatment pathway.
